

PROCEEDINGS EDITOR

Debbie Schwab (FCAS 1990)

1956-2013

Debbie Schwab of Delray Beach, Florida, formerly of Rochelle Park and New York City died on August 13, 2013.

She earned a BS in mathematics from Fairleigh Dickinson University in Teaneck, New Jersey, in 1978. She was an actuary for 35 years with a focus on professional liability and health care.

Debbie Schwab was a copyeditor for Proceedings of Casualty Actuarial Science from 1992 to 2003, a time that was a particularly prolific for actuarial scientific literature. She also volunteered for other CAS committees, serving during her illness. These include the CAS Committee on Health Care Issues (2010-2013), the Hachemeister and Michelbacher Prizes Committee (2010-2013) and on the Member Advisory Panel (2004-2013).

Schwab is survived by her mother, Ethelyn Schwab; sister, Lori Johnson and her husband Gerard of Paramus, New Jersey; aunt, Madelyn Deane of Saddle Brook, New Jersey; niece, Jennifer Johnson; and nephew, Joseph Johnson. Her father, Arnold Schwab, predeceased her.

Donations can be made in Schwab's memory to the American Cancer Society, 20 Mercer Street, Hackensack, New Jersey.